

My Road... Team Activity

“Where we are is not as important as in which direction we are moving”

Everyone travels a different road – and you who and where you are today because of turns and major events that have made you who you are now.

In this team activity, you will share three things:

1. Discuss who you are now traveling with

(the family who is in your “car”)

2. Describe the two most significant events from your past

(the road you have travelled and how they have impacted you)

3. Then, share who and where you want to be ten years from today

(the career plans you have - and take the time to explain how our success

THIS TEAM will help you on your way to that destination...)

Please be thorough and descriptive so we get to know who you are – this is a TEAM that wants to support and encourage you...
